Policy-making is up close and personal for Demmer scholar

Jun 23, 2011 | Comments

Amanda Green, a Michigan State University student from New Hudson, is working on her networks more than her tan this summer by studying the intricacies of federal policy-making while working full-time in Washington, D.C.

Green, a political science/pre-law major, is one of 26 students in the William A. Demmer Scholars Program. Demmer Scholars take a senior-level class in natural resources policy that meets one